B.Ed. Field Trip to Munnar

25th March 2021

The last and the best memories of B.Ed program, the tour of the academic year 2019-21 of FTC began on 22nd March 2021 at 9.30 pm. Students gathered at Raja Gate and the sparks of the tour began with burning of crackers. The bus reached at 6.00 am and halted at Adimali for a fresh up. After having a decent breakfast we moved towards Munnar.

The first place we visited was Mattupetty dam. The gushing water of the dam was indeed a sight. Boating service was available there. An hour was spent there. With a change in schedule, we then visited a Government park, which provided a wonderful sight of rivers and mountains. Boating service was provided there for the visitors. A little rain added to the beauty of the landscape. Then at the eco point, with a vast view of the lake and trees on the other side of the land, we had a tasty lunch. A sudden unexpected rain got us all on the bus without much of an effort.

We then visited the Kundala Lake, which had in it a taste of tea and a beautiful landscape with some shops and looting monkeys. The next point we visited was the Top station. The top station gifted a mesmerising view, with cold breeze running a shiver out of everyone standing at the view point. Moving down from the view point was a refreshing as well as an adventurous experience, as we got very different points of views of the greenery. Many shops were on the way to the view point which sold varieties of chocolate, and tea powder. After gathering a handful of memories from there, we returned to Adimali. On the way back after having some tea, we reached at the campfire site. Everyone danced in rhythm to the rocking songs. The crackers were burned at interval which added colours and uniqueness to the party. After a wonderful day and a musical night, we set back to our college after having a delicious dinner.

Abstract

EFFICACY OF COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIP CURRICULUM PACKAGE ON CHARACTER DEVELOPMENT AMONG COASTAL UPPER PRIMARY SCHOOL STUDENTS IN KERALA

ONATHARA BINITA

UGC Senior Research Fellow
Farook Training College
Research Centre in Education

Dr.M.JESA

Associate Professor
Supervising Teacher
Farook Training College

Character Education is a “deliberate effort to cultivate virtue.” Lickona (1996)

The question of virtue depends on the context, especially the socio-cultural context. Character education is important in coastal schools as per the case of any other sector to raise the awareness of pupils and make them understand the issues and problems involved in the society. Character education along with general education helps develop knowledge, attitude and skill required for participation in sustainable development of coastal regions. As lower academic performance, higher absence level, violence, abuse and vandalism are common in coastal school’s academic portion, covering educational system alone cannot bring in the desired behavioural changes in students.

Operational Definition of Key Terms

Efficacy

It is the ability of something to bring about the desired result.

Character

Character refers to self-concepts, individual differences in goals and values which influence voluntary choices and intentions. It is the representation of moral and ethical traits that is doing right things when no one is observing.

Character Development

Character development is the learning process that enables students, parents and community members to understand core moral and ethical values and act on it.

Community Partnership

Partnership of community is strengthened support that transforms school programme through sharing of variety resources. They complement the school curriculum with service and activities to improve school culture.

Community Partnership Curriculum Package for Character Development

Curricular package for character development through parental and community involvement based on the specific socio-cultural and economic background and philosophy of a school in a particular coastal area. Initiatives are to be taken by the school and community for organizing differential programmes for developing character.

Coastal Upper Primary School Students

Coastal Upper Primary school students are students who study in grade 5th, 6th and 7th in coastal schools of Kerala. In the present study standard 7 is considered.

Variables of the study

Independent variable

In the Present study community partnership character development curriculum package is the independent variable.

Dependent variable

Character development is treated as the dependent variable.

Objectives

Major Objectives

- (i) To develop community partnership character education curriculum package for coastal upper primary school students.
- (ii) To find the effect of developed community partnership package on character development for coastal upper primary school students

Minor objectives

- (i) To analyze components of character development in the content of course book, work book and source book prepared by SCERT for upper primary classes in Kerala.
- (ii) To find the problems arising from misconduct of coastal school students as felt by teachers.
- (iii) To find the opinion of parents of coastal school students on the character traits of their wards.
- (iv) To identify strategies for community partnership character education curriculum for coastal school, from the Headmaster
- (v) To collect details on the existing character development programmes and strategies of implementation in coastal schools from school administrative staff.
- (vi) To identify strategies for community partnership character education for coastal school, from Village/Panchayath Education Committee and Local bodies for Coastal Development.

Hypothesis

There will be no effect for the developed community partnership character education curriculum package on developing character of coastal upper primary school students.

Methodology

Mixed method research was followed to satisfy the different objectives of the study.

Method

Content and Document analysis, survey, interviews and experiment methods were followed.

Sample selected for the study

Data were collected from

- 72 Upper Primary coastal school teachers from the selected school.
- 30 parents of the students from GVHSS Payyanakkal Kozhikode.
- Headmasters and members of administrative staff from the 3 coastal schools in the same district were interviewed.
- 10 officials from village / panchayath Committees and local bodies.
- The experiment was conducted on a sample of 35, standard VII students of GVHSS Payyanakkal, Kozhikode district in Kerala.

Tools used for data collection

- (i) Course books, Work books and Teachers handbooks prepared by Kerala SCERT for upper primary classes
- (ii) School documents of current curriculum and curricular and co- curricular programmes and work schedule.
- (iii) Character Assessment Inventory for Coastal Upper Primary School Students.
- (iv) Scale for Teachers on character problems of coastal upper primary school students.
- (v) Scale for Parents of Coastal School Students on Character of their Ward.
- (vi) Interview Schedule for Head Masters of Coastal Upper Primary Schools.
- (vii) Interview Schedule for Administrative staff of the institution on the existing strategies for character development and the school philosophy.
- (viii) Interview Schedule for Officials of Village/Panchayath Education Committee on strategies to be developed for character education

The analysis of the data and the result are presented in two phases.

Phase I

Qualitative Analysis

The analysis of the data and the result are presented in two phases. The first phase deals with the qualitative analysis of data obtained in the survey which contributed to the development of the curriculum package. These steps correspond to the minor objectives set for the study. In the first phase content analysis, document analysis, percentage analysis, preliminary analysis and item wise analysis were used.

Phase II

Experimentation

The second phase deals with the analysis of the data obtained in the experimentation of the developed curriculum package. The data were classified on the basis of objectives. Based on formulated hypothesis they were subjected to testing. Preliminary analysis, test of significance of difference between means and Cohen's  $d$  were used in the study

Design of the study

A pre-test - post- test single group experimental design was followed. Character assessment inventory was used for collecting data from 35 students of standard VII.

Major Findings of the study.

From content analysis of course book, hand book and work book it was found that there are not any activities or exercises related to coastal life or character development. The document analysis reports showed the backwardness of coastal school students. Community partnership programmes and activities were not included in school curriculum

1. The percentage analysis of coastal school teachers' scale on character of students revealed that teachers face misconduct problems and coastal student lack desirable character traits
2. The analysis done on parents' scale of coastal school students on strengths and weakness of character traits resulted that students display weakness than strengths
3. The interview with Head Masters of coastal schools disclosed that character education was not a part of curricular programme
4. The interview identified the special need for re arrainging the duties, responsibilities, activities, and plans of the administrative staff of coastal schools
5. The interview with councilors and village/panchayath education committee and local bodies for coastal development pointed out the urgent need and importance of developing strategies for community partnership character education for coastal school.
6. Significant difference existed between pre-test scores and post-test mean scores of community partnership character development curriculum package for Coastal Upper Primary School Students. Hence the analysis of community partnership character development curriculum package indicates that the developed package is effective among coastal upper primary school students.

Conclusions

Considering the special characteristics and status of coastal school students, involvement of the community would be beneficial and it was found that the immediate community is not involved in such programmes. It was on this weakness that the investigator strongly felt the need for an effective community partnered character development package for the coastal school. The package, on its experimentation, proved effective in promoting character traits in the selected sample of the coastal school.

Educational Implications

Quality education should respond to the contextual demands and we should structure adaptive classrooms. Educational institutions should function to promote ethical and moral, behaviour. A pro-active curriculum should ensure partnership from various sectors of the society. Similar packages could be developed for specific groups incorporating contextual variable. The curricular component of character education in the teacher education programmes at primary level could be upgraded into a practice-oriented component with the package on character development.

With this, students were able to build a confidence and self reliance in them. It also helped to create a demonstrative or presentational skill ahead of the micro-teaching that will take place from the next day.

In addition to this, the workshop proceeded in a very enjoyable manner by conducting various activities, games and dance which will be useful for the classrooms in the future.
